"US University Admission: Myths and Realities"

Wednesday 15 February 2012 – 1830 to 2030 – Island School

Description

Choosing a college in the US is a difficult proposition. With nearly 3,000 schools to choose from, how does one know which best fits one's educational needs and priorities? Which will provide the best value? It's only natural to seek objective comparisons to help us identify the better from the worse.

This presentation will systematically guide you through each of the criteria used to arrive at the annual collegiate pecking order. We will shatter the myth that ranking correlates with quality. What's more, we will provide you with alternative ways of identifying what truly matters as families shop for the best colleges for their children.

Presenter

Mark Montgomery (<http://greatcollegeadvice.com/>) a college insider: associate dean at the University of Denver, admissions counselor for Fort Lewis College, external evaluator for teaching and learning programs at other universities, including the Yale University and University of Kansas

An award-winning educator: college professor at the University of Denver, teaching award from the Hong Kong University of Science and Technology, instructor at Harvard University, and high school teacher at Saint Mary's Academy in Denver, Fulbright teacher in France, leadership award from the Colorado Congress of Foreign Language Teachers.

Mark regularly gives presentations to the Hong Kong American Chamber of Commerce and travels to Asia regularly to visit schools and meet students.
